

Coming Back To School

For the last few weeks some of my class have been in school and I have been at home.

We have all been learning.

In school the normal grown-ups have been helping the children there, whilst mums, dads and other people have been helping the children at home.

On 8th March everybody will be going into school, including nearly all of our teachers.

This may seem different.

There will be lots of people in the classroom - it may feel crowded.

More people will make it a bit noisier - we are allowed to wear ear defenders if needed.

As there are lots of children

we may have to wait a bit to get help with our work - our friends may be able to help us.

There will be lots of children in the playground - this means more children that we can play with.

Although being in school feels different we will soon get used to having all of our teachers and friends back in school.

Our teachers know that we may need a little while to get used to things. If we are worried about anything we can talk to

1. Our teachers
2. Grown ups at school
3. Our grown ups at home

We will soon get used to all being back in school.
